

Eugene Ballantine

Manager, Finance and Research Chicago

Professional Experience

Eugene has been a part of Cresa's Chicago office for over six years, bringing his total commercial real estate experience to over a decade. In his role as Manager of Research and Finance, Eugene has been crucial to the development of Cresa's market knowledge and reporting capabilities, covering downtown and suburban office markets as well as Chicagoland's industrial market. Additionally, he has created Cresa's best in class market intelligence database, quarterly market reports, and ad hoc whitepapers on all things real estate. In his financial role, he provides high-quality financial analyses to inform and support our clients' real estate decision making. Over the past two years, Eugene has been pivotal in standing up several clients on a variety of Cresa's technology platforms. These platforms range from best-in-class labor and demographics insights to real estate and personnel KPI tracking. Armed with exceptional analytical and organizational skills and an eye for detail, he's a problem solver who constantly seeks to achieve better results while providing a prescriptive outlook on client needs. Prior to joining Cresa, Eugene worked in Assets Services in Washington, D.C. He attended the University of St. Andrews in Scotland where he achieved a Masters of Arts in Classical Studies after attending the Hill School in Pottstown, PA.
