

Liz Spence

Senior Vice President Chicago

Professional Experience

Liz Spence provides advisory services to corporate clients looking to create a comprehensive real estate strategy. She develops a unique approach to help clients connect their business and workplace goals while capturing market trends. Liz excels in finding work environments that promote productivity, innovation and collaboration while minimizing cost and business disruption.

Prior to joining Cresa, Liz worked in the design and commercial furnishings industries. Her experience working for both a furniture manufacturer and dealer provided extensive insight of market needs while simultaneously executing client objectives. She is adept at determining interior space planning requirements, maximizing office space functionality, and ultimately guiding her clients through selections that best serve them. Liz was compelled to combine her creative background and entrepreneurial spirit with Cresa's global platform and full suite of expanded integrated services solely dedicated to the client.

Liz brings over ten years of experience in areas of business development, corporate account management, project management, architectural coordination and interior design. She takes great pride in the relationships she has cultivated, serviced and maintained. Liz is a strong client advocate ensuring service delivery customized to the needs of each project.
