

Gary Lawless, Jr

Principal
Houston, Texas

Professional Experience

Gary is a principal in Cresa's Houston office. He specializes in representing occupiers in all facets of their corporate real estate matters, including lease negotiations, renewals, relocations, expansions, merger & acquisitions evaluations, and dispositions. Gary believes in combining insightful analysis of his clients' business goals and needs with a thorough understanding of the commercial real estate market to better locate, negotiate, and structure the appropriate lease or purchase transaction solution.

In addition, Gary leads Cresa's Energy Practice Group and consults clients on their national and international real estate needs through portfolio optimization, workplace strategies, and business intelligence by partnering with those clients to become their trusted real estate service provider.
