

Matt Elmquist

Managing Principal
San Francisco

Professional Experience

Matt Elmquist has twice received the San Francisco Business Times lease of the year award. Matt joined Cresa's East Bay office in January 2012 as a managing principal. Previously, he served as a managing partner at AEGIS Realty Partners. Since 1992, Matt has completed over 300 transactions for clients ranging from start-up companies to portfolios exceeding 1 million square feet. Matt's experience includes portfolio strategy, sale/leaseback transactions, build-to-suits, land acquisition/disposition, municipal incentives, lease acquisition/disposition, and sales.

Prior to joining AEGIS, Matt spent five years with the real estate and construction practice of KPMG Peat Marwick in San Francisco. Matt was a certified public accountant (CPA) specializing in all aspects of real estate including investment, leasing, management, financing, development, and construction. This experience allows Matt to develop and implement coherent strategies for real estate leasing and investment transactions. Matt's success stems from diligent service and analytical problem-solving skills.
